ANSWER QUESTIONS

About the Story

Once there were two friends, their names were Alex and Jenny. They lived in a small village, with many green fields, where they would go and play together.

Their favorite game was to write stories with the words they already knew. Jenny was the best at it and always used those words in such interesting ways. Alex had never seen anything like it before, he was amazed by how talented Jenny was.

They would stay up late, writing stories and singing songs into the night. By the time they were done, they would be so tired that all they wanted to do was sleep.
